

SAINT KENTIGERN TRUST BOARD

12 August 2012

Dear Saint Kentigern Community

As many of you may have heard or seen in the media, this week we informed our students that the College Head Boy has been stood down for not upholding the standards we expect of our students. Our other three Senior Prefects will continue to lead the College.

We have a very clear code of conduct at the College and we set and expect very high standards from our students and our student leaders in particular. Regrettably, it appears that on this occasion these were not met.

Consistent with our practice at the College, the Head Boy has been sent home pending further review.

I am sure that you will understand our obligations around privacy of persons and more particularly, matters involving young people and their interests.

The College and the Trust Board are continuing to review this matter.

Kind regards

Bruce Goodfellow
Chairman of the Trust Board
